s to make me a comforts on the long, broad bench.

old priest could express h

thts so plainly that I understoo ilmost as well as if we were ab inverse, and when I was in doub ok a board and made drawings ildlike but expressive way.

soon realized that he consider ent as a messenger by their g oatl. A prophecy made hundre years before by one of their gre a told them that a deliverer wor e as a bird. That reminded me n haunting me, as I feared it h

y Eagle that had, during my illne

been damaged beyond repair. In spi

f all it meant to me I had not aske about it. I was led by the priest

the church, through the wide do

of which my Eagle had been carrie and placed before the altar. I looke

it over carefully and found that it we

in good condition, except that the wings had lost their magnetism.

inspected it and found one wing con

ed by a pale yellow varnish-it w

the wing that had been touched by the

"It caused a perfect isolator, and I had had the presence of mind to t

my dry battery at the crucial mome

I would not have had the fall:

everything turns out for the best,

ceeded in cleansing the wings, and

"Yesterday I thought I was stro enough to leave and I bade my ho

goodby with the promise that I wo

"This is a short recital of my doi

during the two months past, and ag

Napoleon had heard a few thi

rom Whistler in Ciryne that disqui

all the important happenings w

war that were supposed to be occupy

"We have nine days at our disposal.

Early next morning Napoleon communicated with his brother workers

the capital. He spent some hours at work designing a device to be used on the aerodromones. With six ma-

returned to Ciryne, While Napo

Napoleon, after a thorough exam

Napoleon's next move was to

was smaller than the Eagle, but wings and the tall rudder were paratively larger. It had no

grace of the Eagle in flight, be speed was something unpreceder

Two more days passed. The found every aerodromone equ

old style fire extinguisher. To tube was connected a small auto

cial aperture in the body of the gun, which protruded through a spe-arranged that it could be pointed in

been sent toward the west were reporting every few hours. They had seen nothing so far that was out of

It was Saturday evening that the last of the aerodromones was made ready for prompt action. Turning the command of the island over to Whistler, Napoleon returned to Washington. The Swallow made the trip in

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Coal Smoke and Health.

Manchester, England, presents evidence to show that the working life of the people of that city is shortened

ten years by the acids in smoke and the carbon particles which invade the lungs. Surgeon J. W. Stoner, of the United States public health service, traces a connection between a smoky atmosphere and the drinking habits of the people. Women living in sun-

less, gloomy homes, attired in somber clothes, breathing a smoke-filled atmosphere, are prone to be irritable,

to scold and whip their children and to nag their husbands who flee to the saloon for solace and relief. Surgeon

Stoner is also of the opinion that children reared in a depressing atmosphere are dull, apathetic and even criminally inclined. The smoke prob-

The Outcome,

as long

the glass.

He-The man who offers me

She-Well, that's all right

A wise wife soon learns to lem is still important.

insults my manhood.

The medical officer of health for

The four aerodromones that had ade

and

com-

t its third natio

analyzed the liquid his workmen

vast quantitles.

any direction.

the ordinary.

two hours.

"When I was able to work I s machine was in working order aga.

liquid from a geyser.

return and bring help.

Hannibal Prudent, president of the government. A message from Colling von Werdenstein, chancellor of Germany, that he has succeeded in penetrating the rays hastens the death of Prudent. Dying, he warns his daughter Astra that foreign invasion is now certain. Astra succeeds her wasins his daughter Astra that foreign invasion is now certain. Astra succeeds her father as president. Napoleon Edison, a former pupil of Prudent's offers to assist Astra and hints at new discoveries which will make North America impregnable. A man giving the name of Chevalier di Leon offers Werdenstein the secret of making gold in return for European disarmament. The chevalier is made a prisoner. Countess Roginy, a say becomes Leon offers Werdenstein the secret of making gold in return for European disarmament. The chevalier is made a prisoner. Countess Rosiny, a spy, becomes a prisoner in the hope of discovering di Leon's secret. She falls in love with him and agrees to join him in an attempt to escape. By the use of rockets he summons a curious flying machine. He escapes and sends a message to Astra which reveals the fact that he is Napoleon Edison. He warns Astra that the consolidated fleets of Europe have salled to invade America. He calls on Astra the following night and explains his plans for defense. By the use of acropianes made of a new substance which is indestructible he expects to annihiliate the European forces. He delivers a note to von Werdenstein on his flagship demanding immediate withdrawal. He is attacked and by destroying two warships and several seroplanes, forces von Werdenstein to agree to universal disarmament. The countess, who has remained in America as a guest of Astra, receives an offer from von Werdenstein of the principality of Schomburg-Lithow in return for Edison's secret. Edison and his sassistant. Santos, go in search of new deposits of the remarkable substance, cirynith. They find it on the estate of Schomburg-Lithow. The countess gets Santos into her clutches. She promises to reveal Edison's secret as soon as von Werdenstein turns over the Schomburg-Lithow estate to her. On the day of the wedding of Astra and Edison the countess and Santos fise the country. Santos perfects a machine, is made a count and marries the countess, now princess of Schomburg-Lithow. Edison finds a new fleet of air-ships. He accidentally discovers a liquid that will render opposing airships help-less. Santos completes a fleet for the princess.

CHAPTER XX.-Continued.

"What need have we of European commerce and troubles? The American continent is ours, we love it and we can live on it. The Z-ray stations America. have been kept in order and we can easily cut ourselves off from those dromone struck the ground by being down amid tremendous applause.

ports and no determination was reached.

Astra and her mother-in-law were sitting in the library at the Crystal Palace depressed and sad. The uncertainty of Napoleon's fate caused long, sleepless nights.

Thus they had lived, day after day, hopefully and fearfully.

The life of the woman who had been the mainspring of all their troubles was different. The Princess Rositta had never been happier than now. The twenty-first aerodromone was finished, and she, like a general, would drill her flying squadron personally.

Rositta had acquired great skill in handling the aerodromone, and she could execute the capturing act very easily. She was loved by the whole crew, which was composed of men from noble families.

These men admired their leader, they were hypnotized by her charms and she handled them so that they were, as one man, ready to give their lives for her.

After a successful maneuver day Rositta gave the order to her men to gather in the large hall. The hall was the schoolroom where Santos taught them the art of aviation in theory.

There were forty men in all-young, vigorous, brave and bold. When Rositta entered, followed by her husband, a cheer rang out: "Hurrah for

She walked to the platform, and her clear voice rang through the hall: "Gentlemen!" The silence was intense. "I have called you together to explain the situation. The American continent has voluntarily taken from us Europeans, children of a different caste, a different race, our most cherished traditions. There is not one among you who is not a nobleman. You all know the situation and Europe's eyes rest on us. Europe is awaiting our action to restore the old order of things. We have the might! Think of these words: 'We have the might!' Therefore, we have the right! The aerodromone flotilla is my own property. Think this over and con-

"Is it right that I-that we-should obey orders that come from powerless rulers? That we, the gallant aerial fleet, should consider those who are held to the ground? That we who have the might should obey anyone else except the one we choose? "Gentlemen, we were all born to be you as my aviators. Gentlemen! You nust select one of us for our com- daughter came with us and brought never tries to manage his wife.

were there. Napoleon had returned at last.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Valley of Xiuh. The first raptures of the reunion my dear Astra, will you tell medi were over. Words took the place of that is new here?" mute expressions of love. Napoleon began to tell his story: "No one knows of my return, ex- ed him, and he was anxious to kn cept my men at Ciryne, and they will the truth. That Astra could tell i keep it to themselves. I did not use best of all. So she began to re the 'graph, as I did not want certain people to know that I was safe—the Napoleon listened attentively, make papers would get hold of it and by notes from time to time. Astra sp morning Europe would know." He of the European decree and all smiled. "They have tried to surprise facts that were officially communicated us, and now we will surprise them." ed to her. Then she told of the ne His eyes rested lovingly on the two paper rumors concerning the aeros women who were his nearest and mone fleet and the preparations for dearest.

"It is exactly eight weeks today ing the time of the European rulers since I left Washington to continue my search for something that I felt I will be very busy for the next few convinced nature had provided for a days, but next Monday I will be ready certain use; that is, to remove the to appear in the congress as the presielectro-magnetism of cirynith. I found dent of the international peace comit, thanks be to Providence. The dis- mittee." covery nearly cost me my life, but I never was happier than the moment when my aerodromone was helplessly in the peace committee, and then left falling down. It is a wonder that I came out alive, but, aside from a few bruises, all is well.

"I was circling around an active vol-chines, equipped with men and par-cano and the wing of the Eagle was he headed for the valley of Muh touched by the warm fluid gushing up that evening. from a geyser. The wings folded together and the Eagle was heapiess.
I turned the tail rudder to break its
I turned the tail rudder to break its
a large supply of the liquid that had

A silent prayer went up from the put the Eagle out of commission two loving women, a prayer of thanks to Him who had saved him to save several trips between the valley "I lost consciousness when the aero- Ciryne, carrying the liquid away warring countries. We will not be the hurled into the bench. When I opened losers." So his address ran. He sat my eyes it was night and I was on a tion, sighed. "Here is something low bed. An ancient oil lamp was It puzzles me, but it solves the However, another orator arose and flickering on a table at my head. I tion of superiority in the air." propounded opposite reasons for open | tried to sit up, but could not. My strength was gone; even my eyelids out the new swallow-type machinfell down, down, and I had a feeling that I was falling from a great height. I felt some one come near, and a moment later I felt a cooling bandage placed on my head by deft hands. I lost consciousness again and do not it shot through the air like a s know how long I lay in a stupor, but I think it must have been at least eight days.

"The first clear moment I had I found that I was in the home of some rich Indian family. Later I found that they were Aztecs-Indeed, the direct descendants of the Incas. In the clear moments during my fever I saw a very beautiful Aztec girl by my bedside nursing me. She was the daughter of the high priest, to whose house I had been taken.

"It was five weeks before I recovered from the terrible fall.

As I regained my strength the old priest, named Xiluhama, assisted me to a porch-like structure that stood before the house, and I beheld a wonderful picture. A few hundred yards

"When I Opened My Eyes It Was Night and I Was on a Low Bed."

away was the smoking volcano, and several steaming geysers were spouting water in the air. At the foot of the cone-like peak stood a great as you don't follow your usus church with strange statues and re and swallow the insult. liefs painted in vivid red, blue, yellow, black green and white colors. The rulers, or I would not have selected whole reminded me of the pictures of ancient Egypt. Xiluhama's beautiful her husband, while a wise The Married Life of Helen and Warren

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

Originator of "Their Married Life." Author of "The Jour-nal of a Neglected Wife," "The Woman Alone," Etc.

HELEN'S EFFORTS TO SAVE A CLEANER'S BILL RESULT MOST DISASTROUSLY

> (Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Dora, I am going to clean some things in gasoline. Don't light the stove until I'm through ,"cautioned Helen.

"I was just goin' to put on an iron for them dollies," grumbled Dora, who never took an order without some objection.

"Well, they can walt. Now, don't strike any matches. Get me that big pan you use for the starch." In the bathroom Helen emptied the whole half gallon of gasoline into the starch pan and dipped into it her chiffon waist

The filmy material wilted down as it soaked up the fluid. Her hands in rubber gloves, she swished it around, gers groped over her face. held it up to drain, and pinned it to the shade before the open window.

After dipping a lace collar and the net yoke and sleeves of her gray taffeta, the gasoline was still clear enough for something else. While she was at it, she would clean those pink satin slippers.

Even with the open window, the stupefying fumes were now sickeningly strong. Hastlly, with held breath, she immersed the slippers, brushing them with a soft nailbrush.

The soiled gasoline she always saved to use again after It had cleared by standing, but now, too dizzy to pour it back into the small-mouthed bottle, she emptled it out into the washbasin. Then, escaping from the bathroom, she closed the door on the stifling fumes.

"Here, Dora," as she took the starch pan out to the kitchen, "wash this out well. This gasoline bottle's empty-I'll put it here on the lower shelf. Be careful not to use it for anything else."

When, a little later, she went back to the bathroom, the waist, except for the thicker parts around the neck and Warren was smoothing back the singed tifully was almost she sent it be the cleaners, they would have charged $2 and done it no better.

It was now after three, and she was anxious for the things to dry quickly if necessary. I'll call in the morning so there would be no traces of odor to dress the arm." when Warren came home.

He had repeatedly forbidden her use gasoline, insisting that he would strangely white and haggard. pay any amount of cleaners' bills rather than have her take chances with this inflammable fluid.

The dress on the towel rack she re arranged so the air could get to the yoke and sleeves, but the slippers on the stone ledge outside the window were still quite wet.

She had just examined one and set It back when a lighted clear butt. tossed from a window above, fell straight into the pink satin toe.

A sizzling flash and the gasolinewith a long tube very similar to the soaked slipper was aflame. For a second Helen stood petrified. Then, jerking up a long-handled bath brush, she thrust it off the ledge. But it was too late! The blaze had leaped to the dromone. The lever controlling this thin lace waist. gun was within easy reach of the aeroman, and the gun itself was so Screaming for Dora, she hurled the thought of the rug." waist into the bath tub and turned on the water. But now the dress had Their low murmured voices came from caught and the flames were leaping up the tiled wall.

Dora, bursting open the door, stared panic-stricken, then rushed back shricking: "Fire! Fire!"

The water, now filling the tub, extinguished the waist; but the dress, which hung on the towel rack, was still ablaze. Frantically Helen tried to poke it down into the tub with the long-handled brush. Then, reaching over to turn on the shower, the flames caught the lace of her kimono sleeve, saturated with the gasoline fumes.

She might easily have smothered it with the heavy bath mat, but now, paralyzed with terror, she ran wildly out, too frightened even to scream. Blindly she dashed through the hall door that Dora had left open.

After that everything was a dazed blur. The draughty elevator shaft fanned the flaming sleeve as she flew stumblingly down the encircling stairway. Excited voices, rushing feet and Dora's still piercing shricks of "Fire!" Someone caught her. Something heavy was thrown about her. The rest blurred into oblivion. "I've sent for her husband." it was woman's voice, lowered to a discreet

"She'll soon be all right," a man's voice, deep and restful. For several moments after the consciousness of the voices, Helen, still clinging to the sheltering darkness, kept her eyes closed. A sharp pain in her shoulder. Some-one was bandaging her arm. Then she realized that the man bending over her ty good job of that." was Doctor Marden, whose office was on the first floor. "You're all right now," reassuringly. as he met her bewildered gaze. "Drink

Dropping back on the pillow, she saw Dora and Mr. Thompson, their superintendent, at the foot of the bed. Standing just back of the doctor was Mrs. Reed, who had an apartment on the floor below.

Still dazed, Helen again sought refuge in the protective darkness of closed eyelids. The heavy odor of iodoform added to her sense of strangeness. Her mind was struggling to bring order and clearness from her chaotic thoughts. She heard Mr. Thompson murmur something to the doctor and tiptoe heavily from the room. Then the telephone rang and Mrs. Reed whispered, "I'll anrwer it."

"Does your head ache?" asked the As though to locate the confused throbbing pain, Helen raised her hand to her head. There was a blood-chilling feel of crisp singed hair. Then a leaping terror as her fear-stiffened fin-"No, your face isn't touched," comforted the doctor, divining her fears. "You got off very easy-gasoline is dangerous stuff. Does that bandage feel too tight?" A slam of the outer door. Though her face was to the wall, she knew it was Warren who burst into the room. The next second he was kneeling by the bed. The vague dread of his stern reprehension fell from her as she felt his encircling arms.

"It's all right, Mr. Curtis,," the doctor's voice was quietly reassuring. "Only a slight burn under the arm." "How did it happen?" huskily.

"Cleaning something in gasoline." "Gasoline!" groaned Warren.

"Yes, they will use it. Your wife ran out into the hall-worst thing she could have done. If Mrs. Reed hadn't thrown a rug about her it might have been serious. Everybody else seemed paralyzed."

Mrs. Reed! So she owed her rescue to Mrs. Reed! The words throbbed in the blurred blackness before Helen's

With awkward, unsteady fingers "She's suffering a little from snock. I'll leave some quieting powders in case she can't sleep. You can give her one at nine and repeat in an hour

The doctor gone, Helen for the first time looked up at Warren. He was

"Oh," faintly, "they frightened you when they 'phoned."

"That's all right-don't think of me. Does your arm hurt?" still smoothing the crisp, roughened hair.

Her head moved in denial, not wanting to admit the pain.

Mrs. Reed, who had been waiting in the other room, came to the door, "You don't need me now, Mr. Curtis, but if you should later-just 'phone down." "I won't attempt to thank you, Mrs.

the bed. "There are some things you "Oh, please don't speak of it. I'm very glad I was able to do something. We had almost the same accident in our family-I suppose that's why I He was following her to the door.

Helen's turmoiled thoughts were rehearsing the tragedy. The bathroom!

visions of a heavy repair bill-of the tiled walls and porcelain tub cracked by the flames.

Warren was again by the bed, but she did not look up. Just then it seemed easier to lie there with closed eyes. Now that they were alone, she was struggling against a hysterical desire to burst into tears. She yearned yet dreaded for him to com-

There was a long silence. He was holding her hand, stroking slowly the unbandaged arm. From the street came the rhythmic clatter of hoofs and the receding rumbling of wheels, "Well, Kitten, how about the gasoline? Is one lesson going to be enough?" Helen nodded, biting her lips to steadiness. Another silence. Then she asked, quiveringly:

"Dear, the bathroom! Did-did it injure the walls or ceiling?"

"Haven't looked," briefly. "You're all right-that's all that counts. Any damage is dirt cheap if it'll make you leave that infernal stuff alone."

"Oh, I'll never use it again," choking back a sob. "I'll never even have it in the house."

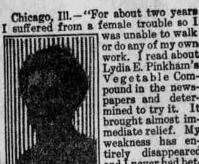

"All right, Kitten, I won't rub it in. A jolt like this is pretty tough on both of us." Then, with relieving humor, "Well, you won't have to frizz your hair for a while. You've made a pret-

Cruel Hint.

"Are those field glasses any good?" "Indeed they are; you can even see a little of this," raising her head to Bob's new mustache with them on clear days."

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Do . No Work. Could Now Strong as a Man.

was unable to walk was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has enweakness has en-tirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 165 pounds and am as strong as a man.

Ithink money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jos. O'BRYAN, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflamwho suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, peri-odic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Neighborly Society.

"Oh, mother," cried Mabel, who had never visited in the country. "I have just had a letter from my schoolmate inviting me to spend two weeks on her father's farm."

Mabel's mother looked up languidly. "Yes, dear," she remarked, "and what does she say about the society in the neighborhood? Does she mention anyone?"

"No," answeed Mabel thoughtfully, but I've heard her mention the Solsteins and Guernseys."

"Oh, well," said her mother. "7 presume they are pleasant people, -Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

CUTICURA HEALS ECZEMA

And Rashes That Itch and Burn-Trial Free to Anyone Anywhere.

In the treatment of skin and scalp troubles bathe freely with Cuticura Soap and hot water, dry and apply Cuticura Ointment. If there is a natural tendency to rashes, pimples, etc., prevent their recurrence by making Cuticura your daily toilet preparation.

Free sample each by mail with Book, ourses postcard, Cutlourn. Dept. L. Boston. Sold everywhere .- Adv.

SOME RIFLE FIRING KINKS

There Are a Thousand Things Not Mentioned in "Drill Regulations" That Recruit Must Learn.

The average recruit who starts in at West Point knows as much about the fine points of rifle firing as a longshoreman about flying. First he masters the elementary steps-the manual of arms and the correct firing positions, says the Popular Science Monthly. Then he must learn a thousand facts not mentioned in the "drill regulations." Among the rifle kinks, for instance, is the smoking of the glass rifle sights for work in the sun-By simply holding the sights over the Reed," Warren rose from the side of flame of a match-or, better, over an alcohol flame-a light layer of lampblack is spread over the sight which enables the soldier to fire even whenhe is directly facing the sun. And reflected glare is eliminated so that he can work without danger to his eyes,

Another kink is the doubling up of the ordinary rifle strap in order to use it to obtain a sling-grip. By making the sling short enough, it is possible for the left hand to obtain a viselike What damage had been done? She had grip on the rifle. This helps considerably in steadying it.

One day after shoveling soil on his father's allotment for two hours little Jemmy began to cry. "What's the trouble, my little man?" asked a sympathetic bystander. "A bad tramp come along and stole the shovel from the boy in the next, allotment." "Well, my lad, it's nice to be sympathetic," said the looker-on, "but you mustn't worry so over other people's affairs," "It ain't that," said Jemmy. "I'm cryin' because he didn't steal my shovel, too."

But Lottie Hadn't One.

Flossie (alluding to her new ring)-It isn't always what a present costs that makes it appreciated.

Lottie (who doesn't think much of It)-No, dear. Very often it is what other people think it costs.

If a man occasionally tells a woman how pretty she looks she will forgive most of the other lies he tells her.

